

DANVILLE, BOYLE COUNTY.

—Our merchants universally complain of dull trade and especially slow collections.

—The camp meeting and Sam Jones took many a Danvillian to High Bridge Sunday.

—Mr. Wm. Redford has sold his restaurant to Lucas & Scott, who will operate it under the above name.

—Mr. A. B. Robertson, who has been a sufferer from rheumatism for some months, has improved sufficiently to travel and is now in the East.

—Rev. F. J. Cheek, pastor of the Presbyterian church in Paris, has been granted a vacation by his flock, and is spending a part of it here with his mother's family.

—In last Friday's issue our report read that Hon. M. J. Durham would speak at Mintonville on Monday, July 22, when it should have read Mintonville for that day and date. He is not billed to speak at Mintonville on any date as yet.

—Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Welsh, Sr., have been confined to their beds and rooms for the past week, but are improving at this time. Mr. Welsh is one of our oldest citizens and business men, and his illness has enlisted the interest of every one.

—Petit thieves are numerous in and around Danville at all seasons of the year, but just now they have assumed the taste of an aesthetical nature and allow no flowers conveniently located to go unmolested. This has occurred quite frequently of late, especially in the yards along Fourth street. They at first took only the blossoms, but afterwards were not content without possessing both "root and branch."

—The buildings of Hon. M. J. Durham and Mr. H. E. Samuel, on Broadway, are nearing completion and will be additional ornaments to that street, which is one of the prettiest in Danville. The addition to Gilcher's Hotel and the D. and D. Institute buildings are nearing completion. When the Gilcher addition is complete it will stand second to no hotel in the State, outside of Louisville and Lexington.

—Mr. Ed Hughes, of Paris, is off on a vacation and is at his mother's in this city. Dr. McMurtry will not go to Louisville to live, as was stated in a former letter, but will continue to reside in Danville, and Danville is glad of it. Mr. Wm. Briggs left for an extended business trip in the South, on Sunday night, in the interest of a New York house, which he has represented for the past two or three years.

—Prof. Wm. Yerkes, of Paris, is visiting relatives in Danville. Mr. H. E. Samuel is able to attend to his duties in the drug store, after quite a painful illness. Col. Joe Moore, of the Advocate, went to High Bridge Sunday to see Sam Jones, the "pullets" and "Flemons" "devil's step-ladder," which was to be "gilded" on that day. Mr. Samuel G. Boyle, of the Kentucky Stock Farm, of Lexington, made his usual Sunday visit to Danville on the 14th.

—The Sullivan-Kilrain fight has been the theme with men and boys for two weeks past, and to illustrate the evil effects of such things it is only necessary to cite a single instance, in which two Danville boys, aged respectively 14 and 15 years, desired to measure strength, when a third party bought a belt for which they were to fight. So on last Friday at noon, all things had been arranged for the "mill." A 20-foot ring had been laid out, referees, spongers and bottle-holders chosen; the young gladiators appeared stripped to the waist, and at the call of time went valiantly into the fight. Your correspondent did not witness the combat, but learns from a spectator that it would have been a "fight to the finish" had not the proprietor of the premises appeared and put an end to hostilities. We are told that blood was drawn by one of the combatants; that they fought with determination and are not yet satisfied, so had arranged for a meeting Saturday. If Saturday's fight came off we have not heard of it. The names of the boys are reserved that they may not have even more serious encounters with their respective parents, yet they richly deserve flogging.

MT. SALEM.

—Mr. Bonnet S. Tinsley died of consumption at the residence of Mr. Ted Ross, near Mt. Salem, on the 13th. He had reached the ripe age of 70 or more years and was a man of strong convictions and possessed several prominent traits, among which were his powerful observing faculties and a very retentive memory. About the year 1840 he was a partner in a flourishing tailoring establishment in Stanford. He lost his wife several years ago and not being a good financier the last years of his life he was in very reduced circumstances. He was connected with the best families in the county and respected by everybody.

—Assistant Secretary Bussy has decided that an attorney can recover from a pensioner the amount specified in his contract regardless of the amount of pension granted, provided the fee is not in excess of that allowed by law.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—Miss Lula Bronston is visiting Miss Juliet Hill. Mrs. Dr. W. S. Elkin, who has been dangerously ill, is very greatly improved. Dr. Elkin was telegraphed for to Atlanta and is now here.

—When the case against Col. John Henderson, for the shooting of Jesse Smallwood, was called last Saturday, he waived examination and was held in bond to appear before circuit court.

—That was a happy day for all when the revenue boys met with their chief, ex-Collector Bronston, at Shakertown and surprised him with the presentation of a fine gold watch and chain. His chief deputy, Capt. W. S. Miller, originated the scheme, but was himself more astonished than his chief when the "revenue boys of Mercer" presented him with one of the handiwork of the ever made.

—Charles W. Sweeney died of apoplexy, in his 38th year, at his home in this city, Saturday morning at 7 o'clock. For several weeks he had been complaining of headache, which affected him only slightly sometimes, but at others very severely. It was regarded as a troublesome case of neuralgia, until Thursday night, when he received a stroke from which he recovered for only a few hours, when the second one came on producing death in a few hours. His funeral was preached by Elder J. C. Frank at the Church at 3:30 p. m., Sunday, after which his remains were buried in Lancaster cemetery. The procession was one of the largest we have ever seen. Charles has been associated in business with his father for a number of years and was a successful and popular merchant. He was a good citizen—a loving and faithful husband and father. His wife and two children, who are overwhelmingly distressed, have the sympathy of all. Any attempt at comforting words, at a time like this, must be poor indeed, but our best is to commend them to the God whose ways are all ways of pleasantness and whose paths are all paths of peace. May the God of pity and all grace comfort them as they lay their widowed and orphaned heads in loneliness upon their pillow to-night.

CRAB ORCHARD

—Another ball at Dripping Springs Saturday and Sunday night.

—There was to have been a private picnic at Brown Spring Saturday, but it was stopped by the rain.

—Quite an interesting debate took place at the T. McHodges school-house Saturday night on the subject, "Is Prohibition the Best Way to Control the Liquor Traffic Compared with High License?" The affirmative won, according to the decision of the judges. Spurr Chappell spoke on the negative, A. H. Nease, R. L. Davis and W. K. Buchanan on the affirmative. Chappell was assisted by John Warren and Mr. Trumbull.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. M. O'Bryan, of Stanford, are the guests of Mr. W. R. Dillon. Gen. Gano was visiting Mrs. Catherine McAlister. Miss Dora Wilmore is visiting Miss Irene Dillon. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Colley have moved from Danville and occupy Dr. Amendt's house. Miss Mamie Thomas, of Indiana, is the guest of Mrs. J. A. Newland. Mrs. W. E. Grant and two nieces, from Louisville, are at the Springs. Both Crab Orchard Springs and Dripping Springs have a goodly number of guests and the festivities of the season are fairly under way.

—R. C. Warren and Bro. Montgomery clashed swords on the rostrum here Saturday. Dick was pleasant as you please and showed his confidence in the success of the principles he maintains, while Bro. Montgomery, with only a ghost of a chance, with the prospective nomination of a republican sometime, did not know exactly what would follow, sagged the temperance element of the republican party (which is very few). We think that Dick, though he has no wings to fly with, will get there all the same. One thing is certain, that although an assumption of angelic purity belongs to the prophets, they all are no more or no less than men. The main point is not to meet the demands of angels, but of men, with the good and bad mixed as we find them that is best for man. Dick made friends here.

—The record of railroad construction shows 1,411 miles of new main-line track built in the first six months of this year in the United States against 2,390 in the corresponding period of last year.

—A Mahlenberg man is dying from the effects of blood poisoning produced by the removal of a corn from his toe. The amputation of his leg was resorted to to save him, but without avail.

Eggs and chickens are too valuable to be allowed to go to waste when Gutter's chicken cholera cure is sold and warranted by McRoberts & Stage.

You Cannot Afford

At this season of the year to be without a good reliable diarrhoeal agent in the house, as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, is exceedingly dangerous if not attended to at once. One hundred Beegs' Diarrhoea Pills will do more good in cases of the kind than any other medicine on earth. We guarantee it. A. R. Penny, Druggist.

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

—On Thursday night some one poisoned a horse belonging to James Butner, of color, who lives near town, and a few weeks ago one of his hogs was poisoned.

—One of the most important cases disposed of in the common pleas court here last week was that of John Woods' heirs against the Pitman Coal Co. and others. Judgment in favor of defendants.

—Some wretch with vile purposes in view placed a steel rail across the track at the north end of the switch at Williamsburg Thursday night, but fortunately the north-bound train had not gained sufficient headway to be thrown from the track when it struck it.

—There was more preaching in London Sunday than has been here in one day for some time. Dr. A. C. Graves, a Baptist minister of Lebanon, preached in the court-house, where he has been conducting a series of meetings for the past week; Rev. O. F. Duvall occupied the pulpit at the Methodist church and Elder Stephen Collier preached at the Reform church. There was also quarterly meeting at the colored Methodist church.

—J. W. Woodall, who stabbed Bob Barnes and his son a few weeks ago, was tried before Judge Baker Saturday and held in a bond of $200 for his appearance in circuit court. There is also a bench warrant here for him issued from Rockcastle circuit court. Jess Mullins was also arraigned before Judge Baker the same day charged with breach of the peace and carrying concealed weapons. Five dollars for the first offense and $25 and 10 days imprisonment for the latter was the judgment of the court. Jesse has a good many law suits and they generally go "agin" him. It has not been long since he returned from Frankfort.

—About one o'clock last Thursday two thieves entered the house of David Graybeal, a wealthy citizen who lives one mile west of town, and stole $50. Only one of them entered the house at first who tried to sell Mrs. Graybeal a book, but she soon discovered that he was blacked, which frightened her so that she immediately left the house and ran to where the men were at work and she saw another man enter the house just as she left. When Mr. Graybeal returned the thieves had gone, but had robbed him of about $50. A man named Nathan Jenkins was arrested Saturday and placed in jail and there is strong evidence of his guilt. His son-in-law, named Dickey, is supposed to have been with him. They are both tough customers and any community would do well to get rid of them.

Primary Election by Ballot to Nominate Democratic Candidates.

The Democratic County Committee met pursuant to call on Saturday, July 14th, and resolved that a primary election be held on the third Saturday in October next to select nominees for the county officers to be voted for at the next August election after that date. A poll shall be opened at every voting place in the county except in two Stanford precincts, which will be taken at one voting place to be held at the court-house. The vote shall be by ballot and shall commence and close at the same hours as the regular elections. Democrats and minors of democratic proclivities, who will attain their majority by the next August election, shall be allowed to vote, and the names of the voters shall be recorded in a poll-book. The ballot-boxes must be sealed and delivered by the clerks of the election to the county chairman by the following Monday, when the ballots will be counted and the result declared by the committee.

When the summer's rose has faded
What shall make it fair again?
When the face with pain is shadowed
What shall drive away the pain?
Never shall a blossom brighten
After blighted by the frost.
But the heart can pain many lighten,
And we need not count as lost

all the pleasure of life when the wife and mother, upon whom the happiness of home is largely dependent, is afflicted with the delicate diseases peculiar to women. It is terrible to contemplate the misery existing in our midst because of the prevalence of these diseases. It is high time that all women should know that there is one sure remedy for all female complaints, and that is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Do not allow ill-health to fasten itself upon you. Ward it off by the use of this standard remedy. But if it has already crept in, put it in. You can do it by the use of the "Favorite Prescription." It is guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, if money paid for it will be returned.

For indigestion, sick headache, indigestion, and constipation, take Dr. Pierce's Peppermint.

A Tribute.

Dr. John A. Bogle, the accomplished teacher, the upright citizen, the genial companion, the ready writer, is no more. The Falstaff of the admirable little paper which was nurtured by him in its infancy, fostered in its growth and supported in its flourishing maturity, with unflinching loyalty, has laid aside his pen for that rest which remaineth to the people of God. His was indeed a pen that was mightier than the sword. Pure English flavored by keen wit, both of fact and fancy, marked his weekly contributions to the INTERIOR JOURNAL; and the sheet with its familiar signatures of Falstaff, Quito and others, was a welcome visitor at many a fireside. To say that its own editorial merit was not enhanced by the Danville column would be to detract from the influence of its faithful correspondent.

Many a playful passage at arms (or pens) did he wage with Sappho; and it was amusing to observe his surprise when, after months of such exchange of civilities (or hostilities, they met for the first time at the marriage feast of his son William. What, or whom, he expected to see did not appear; but with native humor he betrayed his wonder, and with native gallantry declared he had thought her a much older woman. The subtle compliment paid to her ability in this suggestion could only have emanated from such a heart as Falstaff's. He had known her only as a writer. That he did not find her gray-haired was the gist of his praise. The last article read by her honored father on the day that he breathed out his life, was Falstaff's clever paragraph narrating this little incident of his meeting with Sappho. The last act of that life was to throw the I. J. aside and lie down to take the rest which in one brief hour, proved to be rest eternal.

Beloved and lamented Falstaff! Requiescat in pace.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

State Treasurer,
STEPHEN G. SHARPE.FOR STATE SENATOR,
R. J. BRECKINRIDGE, OF BOYLE.For Representative, Lincoln County,
RICHARD C. WARREN.

When Sullivan reached Nashville on his way from the flight, a squad of policemen were on hand to arrest him. He showed fight at first, but a pistol or two pointed at his carcass quieted him down and he was taken to the calaboose. The arrest was made on a telegram from the governor of Mississippi, who offered a $1,000 reward for the slugging. Habeas corpus proceedings being at once instituted by Sullivan's attorneys, he was soon released on the ground that he was illegally held, the offense of prize fighting being simply a misdemeanor and not extraditable. Kilrain came near being arrested in another State, but getting wind of the attempt he and his party took to the woods and eluded the officers. According to the Mississippi law prize fighting is punishable by fine of not less than $500 or more than $1,000 or confinement in jail a year, or both, but as Gov. Lowry permitted his birds to escape from his bailwick, he can hardly expect more now than a little advertising of himself as one of "them fellows who looks up a stable after the horse has been stolen."

While entertaining an opinion, formed by a study of the question from results obtained by a trial of the several methods, that there is a more practical way of dealing with the whisky question than by prohibition, we have no light to make against anyone who honestly believes to the contrary. It is not the prohibitionists we are fighting in this campaign, but the party which is parading under that name—a party which is not only arraigned against the one to which we owe allegiance, but which inculcates doctrines entirely repugnant to our mind—woman suffrage and the disfranchisement of voters, who are so unfortunate as to be uneducated. We are not fighting temperance or teetotalism men, but we do and shall continue to fight the prohibition party with the same earnestness we have always fought, the republican party.

If people are ever excusable for taking the law into their hands, surely those of Charleston, S. C., would be if they would take murderer McDow and break his cowardly neck. Not content with making himself generally odious since his farcical acquittal of the assassination of editor Dawson by his brazen air and threatening words, he has begun a series of persecutions of the widow of the man he slew, which further proves his craven nature. If half the reports of his actions are true, the South Carolinians will be false to their manhood if they permit the miserable scoundrel to further molest the helpless family of his victim or air his putrid carcass in the presence of decent people.

BECAUSE the railroads would not fall down and worship or rather haul the G. A. R. for next to nothing, the grand mogul of that republican attachment, has issued an order that none but delegates attend the annual pow wow at Milwaukee, thereby shutting the roads out of the travel they might have gotten. The G. A. R. may own the government and its treasury, but we are glad to note that the railroads do not bow yet to their authority, though it is no telling how soon we all shall have to, if its presumption is not checked.

The Covington Commonwealth gets after our dear old Polk in this wise: "The editor of the Capital announces that 'when he has anything to say he speaks right out in meeting.' To those who know Grandpa Johnson this statement is entirely unnecessary. He not only speaks out in meeting, but if there is no meeting he will call one, and if an audience is not obtainable he will crack loose at a barn door or any other broad object in sight."

GEORGE BAKER, late a Louisville editor, has been recommissioned as a member of the Board of Pension Appeals for four years more. He used to be and still claims to be a democrat, but he is so pronounced an anti tariff reform man as to induce Harrison to believe he is not much better than a republican.

A DISPATCH from Nicholasville says that the storekeepers and gaugers held a farewell meeting at Shakerstown, where they had a swell banquet and a big time. The boys presented ex-Collector Bronston a handsome gold watch and Deputy Collector W. S. Miller a beautiful engraved gold-headed cane—both deserved testimonials to capital officers.

THOMAS CRAVENS has taken the position of assistant editor of the Jellico News and will as usual make things hum. Cravens is a good writer with a propensity for stirring up the hornets, and we are glad to know that he is again out with his stick.

The prohibitionists are circulating with great avidity a report that Mr. Warren has been forced to withdraw from the canvass and that another man will be substituted for him. There never was a bolder-faced, more brazen and unreasonable lie than this. The democratic party is in entire sympathy with Mr. Warren, who is not only in the race to stay, but to WIN. The "I am holier than thou" crowd should remember that while there is no special commandment as to prohibition, there is one expressly against lying, and that they should not let the wish be father to the thought that Mr. Warren will not stay with them till the cows come home. He is making votes daily and is going to be elected as sure as the 5th of August comes. Lincoln will then have a representative worthy of her and one whose ability and integrity will count for the good of the State at large in the next General Assembly. Hurrah for Dick!

It is given out from the Commissioner's office that hereafter that official will make assignments of storekeepers and gaugers himself instead of delegating it to the collectors. So far so good, but the further statement that he is going to assign them to districts other than those in which they reside or from which they were appointed is going to cause some old fashioned kicking.

EDITORS STOVALL, GIVEN and Duncan are under arrest at Elizabethtown, charged with endeavoring to excite mob violence by giving expression to public opinion, which is almost unanimous, that Will Stowers murdered his young wife. The trial is set for next Friday, but it is likely nothing will be done. The public is decidedly with the editors.

The case of Wickliffe's executors vs. Breckinridge's heirs, after being in the courts for 76 years and costing half a million dollars, was Saturday decided by the Fayette court in favor of the heirs. Disputed land titles caused the suit. The result adds further proof to other experiences that it is best to give up a good deal than go to law.

The Lebanon Enterprise is moved to remark that a genteel cowhiding would frequently do some judges a great deal of good. Lookout, Bro. Hill. Judge Boyd is down that way and may think you have personal reference to him. He might as well indict you for that as anything we have said about him.

To the People of Lincoln County.

As you know, my father, J. A. Bogle, was elected by you in August, 1886 school commissioner for this county for a term of four years, ending August 1890. He has recently died and an election is now ordered for the 1st Monday in August to fill the vacancy of one year thus created.

I am assured by gentlemen of the legal profession that I am eligible to the office. I have had four years' experience as a teacher, and, indeed, on account of my father's failing health, I have had considerable experience, acquired by assisting him, in the practical duties of commissioner. I may, therefore, I hope, without egotism, claim to be competent to fill the office without discredit to myself or to the people.

I beg to announce myself as a candidate to fill out my father's unexpired term, and I do so in this way because I cannot go to you personally to solicit your vote, nor would you, I am sure, wish to have me do so. I should be truly proud and grateful to you for permission to act as my father's successor during the brief remainder of his term, and to earn for his family the salary to which he would have been entitled had he lived. I can only promise, as I unservicedly do, in case I receive this proof of your confidence and sympathy, to do my utmost to make for you as faithful a servant as was my father. One could not well, I am bold to say, do or promise more.

Respectfully, KATE BOGLE.

—Will Gentry, of Gentry Bros., Boyle, tells the Harrodsburg Democrat that there is no money in raising cattle now. They have a lot which cost them $4 last year. They fed them eight barrels of corn per head from December to May and grazed them the balance of the year, and the cattle on the New York market are now worth $4.50 and $4.35.

The firm of Metcalf & Foster having been dissolved, we are very anxious to settle the firm business and all parties knowing themselves indebted to us will please call and settle at once. Metcalf & Foster.

The advertisement that Bradley and Colson would speak here Saturday appears to have been a scheme to draw a crowd to the republican convention. Colson, at least, had no idea of coming, as he was killed to speak that night in Louisville and did so.

THE RESULT.—Of the 52 teachers examined by Miss Kate Bogle and Prof. S. J. Pullino, 6 were awarded first class certificates, 17 second and 11 third while two failed to get certificates.

Prof. W. F. NILES is announced in this issue as an independent candidate for school superintendent. He has considerable reputation as a teacher and appears to be capable and qualified.

Mr. Geo. D. HORTON has another day at his house that he says is a real John Sullivan in dimensions, but it is dollars to cents he'll not name him for the breaser. Mother and babe doing well.

It will be seen that the committee adopted the ballot system of voting in the primary. We do not believe it will work and that it will be changed after sufficient thought is given the question.

The presence of so many prohibitionists in the republican convention may mean that they are satisfied with Mr. Ward's prohibition record and may swap Bro. Montgomery out for him. This is merely a surmise, however.

The ladies continue to send four and five-dollar clovers for a chance in the drawing for our business manager. The latest is from a West End beauty who plaintively inquires, "Will I be the fortunate one?" We hope so at any rate.

Twelve colored teachers offered for the full examination Friday and four on civil government. One man, G. W. Haynes, who passed by answering 18 of the 20 questions, was taken with a hemorrhage immediately afterwards and like to have bled to death.

The most terrible thunder storm witnessed here for a long time occurred Friday night. The lightning was almost continuous, followed so quickly by deafening reports, as to make one think the house he was in had been struck.

Strange to say, however, nothing was struck in town that we heard of. A heavy rain fell, which continued at intervals all day Saturday.

Some of the colored delegates, we are told, objected to the nomination of a man with Reese Ward's record on the prohibition question and withdrew from the caucus. A dozen or more hurried for Dick Warren after the convention and said they were still for him. They do not think that Ward, who has voted for prohibition four times, will "vote fair" with them, no matter what he promises.

THERE WAS quite a full attendance at the democratic committee meeting Saturday and considerable business was transacted. Owing to the fact that they are candidates, Messrs. T. W. Varnon, J. N. Menefee and J. B. Paxton resigned as members of the committee and H. W. Vandever, E. P. Woods and J. A. Hammonds were named in their steads. After a full discussion of the question, the committee fixed on the 31 Saturday in October for a primary election to nominate candidates for county offices to be filled at the August election 1890. Other matters were attended to but they were not made public.

ARRESTED THE WIDOW MAX.—In our last issue we told of the arrest of John Barton, night switchman at Rowland, by Sheriff Matt Moore and Jailer J. L. Jones, of Whitley, on a charge of stealing. It turned out that Barton was not the man wanted and he was released. He came at once to County Attorney Carpenter and a warrant charging the officers with false arrest and imprisonment was sworn out and forwarded to Whitley. The penalty is from one to 20 years in the penitentiary. Mr. Barton has also, through Miller & Dwyer brought suit for $2,000 damages against the officers, who seem to be in for it for a while at least.

EXPLANATORY.—We learn that some of the republicans profess to believe that we went to their convention for the purpose of raising a row and breaking it up, if possible. Such a suggestion is too idiotic for discussion, but perhaps an explanation is due. We went to the convention solely for the purpose of getting for publication anything of interest to the public that might transpire and with ill-feelings towards no one. Under the impulse of indignation at what we thought a deliberate attempt at an insult we promptly resented a remark made by Lawyer Davison in his speech. He disclaimed any reference to us, and that was the end of it. We had no thought or intention of being discourteous to the body, and may have acted too hastily, but what occurred might have happened in court or in church, circumstances being the same.

DICK TATE has at last been located. Preacher Bolling says he is in "Canada" and he ought to know.

PLEASE call and settle your accounts, as they have been due since July 1st. I need the money. Kate Duller.

The storm Sunday evening blew the top off one of Mr. John Bright's barns and played havoc with some corn fields, which were leveled to the ground.

It seems that the troops will not come to Crab Orchard. The Second and Third Regiments will go to Grayson in August and the Louisville Legion, having had its outing at the New York Centennial, will not go anywhere.

Who is Mr. Ward?—This question is being asked pretty freely and we answer it as best we can. He is rather a recent acquisition to our population, lives at Crab Orchard and is a clever and successful old soul, fond of his toddy, but desirous, if his votes for prohibition in four consecutive an index, of cutting it off from other people. One would hardly imagine he is good legislative timber, or that he would have any aspiration to pose as a law-maker, but we really hope he will accept the republican nomination tendered him. He has not yet done so, though Mr. Warren requests us to invite him to his appointments so that he can tell the people how he stands, if he determines to make the race.

THE Stanford Female College faculty has been selected and is as follows: Prof. J. M. Hubbard, President, Mental and Moral Science, Ancient Languages and Mathematics; Miss Mary F. McAnally, of Memphis, Lady Principal, Natural Science, English Literature and Education; Miss Emma McKean, of Ohio, Mathematics, History, French, German and Latin; Miss Mollie Williams, Instrumental and Vocal Music and Miss Florence Briscoe Wells, of Louisville, Drawing and Painting. The patrons of the school are thoroughly pleased with those of the faculty who were here last session and are satisfied that Prof. Hubbard has chosen wisely in the other members of it. The prospects are flattering for a full school. Prof. Hubbard deserves a liberal patronage for his efforts to make the school a most superior one and we hope he will receive it.

RAIDS IN CONVENTION.—The novelty of the republican party in this county holding a public meeting drew quite a crowd to the court-house Saturday afternoon. The bell rung at 2, but it was 3 before Lawyer Davison and his minions filed from the caucus-room into the circuit court hall. As "chairman" of the county committee he called the convention to order and then raved and tore his shirt for a few moments, telling what kind of a candidate it was going to put out. Nominations for permanent chairman being in order, George W. Gentry suggested the Lawyer and he was elected. G. W. Wine was then made secretary and on motion a committee of five were appointed on resolutions, consisting of R. G. Alford, G. W. Gentry, Hall Anderson, Steve Drye and Marion Capps, three white and two black. They reported a short string endorsing Harrison's administration, the action of the State convention, ratifying the nomination of Mr. Colson for State treasurer and securing it to Dick Tate and the democratic party generally. Not a single word was said about the county questions. After the resolutions were adopted, R. G. Alford nominated Reese Ward for the legislature, Gentry seconded it and Mr. Ward was chosen as the party's nominee, amid a painful but impressive lack of enthusiasm. Mr. Ward was not present and a committee—Mr. Alford and W. R. Dillon—were appointed to notify him of his nomination. Red-hot speeches were made by Gentry and Rev. G. W. Bowling, but no white orator materialized. Preacher Bolling will be remembered as one of the prohibition orators here in 1880, when he was one of the strongest cards and most telling advocates of the law, but he evidently doesn't want to carry the lawlessness into politics, for said he: "Rather than see this little prohibition party burst up the republican party, I would have a bar-room in every house and whisky flowing like a river," or words to that effect. At this Bro. Ballou, who could stand it no longer, arose and left the room, thoroughly disgusted. It is understood that if Mr. Ward accepts the nomination he will have to make the race on the proposition for an absolute repeal by the legislature of the prohibitory law. His record, however, as a prohibitionist will make his position a very absurd one, for he voted for prohibition every time he has had a chance to do so—once in this county, twice in Garrard and once in Rockcastle.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

The 4th quarterly meeting of the Conference year will be held at McKendree next Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. Monroe Drew declared in a sermon that there is not a virtuous woman in Le Claire, Mich., and now he is a fugitive with dozens of angry men ready to resent the imputation.

Miss Mollie Merriman, the Mercer county evangelist, has just closed a meeting near High Bridge which resulted in 38 additions. She is described as a very handsome young woman, with a happy flow of language, and never fails to captivate her audience. Miss Annie Cone is her singing partner.

A long-haired son-of-a-gun from Ohio, who claims to be the Son of God, is frightening Georgia in growth by telling them the world is coming to an end Aug. 10 and selling them angel wings at $5 a pair. He had disposed of 300 pairs, when he was ordered to flee to the mountains of Hepzibah.

DISPERSING A TRAMP.

What Happened to Those Who Undertook It.

I was eating dinner at a farm house in Indiana when one of the children came in and announced that a highway tramp had called at the kitchen door and asked for a bite to eat. The farmer was a very short, very fat and very bald headed man, and he was postmaster at the corners and justice of the peace in and for the county. He had a son called James, another called Moses, and a hired man who was addressed as Towser. He sent out word for the tramp to sit down and rest, and as a laugh went round the table
he explained:

"After dinner I shall be pleased to show you how we encourage tramps in this section. This is evidently a new man to this part of the state, or he would never have called here."

After dinner we went out. The tramp was sitting under a cherry tree, looking as comfortable as you please, and evidently unsuspecting that anything except dinner was in store for him. He looked to me like a bad man to fool with,
but the farmer didn't seem to read him
that way.

"Now, then," he said, as he rubbed
his fat hands together, "you will stand up."

"What for?" asked the tramp.

"To be kicked! I am going to boot
you from this spot down to that silvered
telephone pole."

"But I object."

"Can't help that. As a fourth class postmaster of the United States of America I command you to arise."

"If I am kicked somebody else will get hurt!" cautioned the tramp as he got up.

"As one of the justices of the peace in and for this county I command you to disperse," said the farmer as he turned the tramp toward the gate and administered a kick.

Next instant he received a left hander
on the nose which knocked him into a confused heap on the grass, and the tramp got out of his old coat and prepared for business.

"Towser, pulverize him!" shouted the farmer as he struggled to his knees. "In the name of the United States I command you to knock him down!"

Towser advanced, his big fists doubled
up, but the tramp danced to the right and the left, and then sent in one on the hired man's commissary department, which doubled him up and laid him
among the hollyhocks.

"James, Moses, make him prisoner," yelled the old man, as he plucked a handful of grass and held it to his bleeding nose.

The tramp chuckled. There was fun ahead.

The two boys were strapping young fellows, strong enough to knock down an ox, and they were willing to go in.
As they stripped off the tramp backed up between two currant bushes, where they could not flank him, and as they advanced upon him he grinned all over.

He played with them for a minute or two, and then drew a long breath, made three or four feints, and piled them on the grass together. Neither moved to get up for full two minutes. Meanwhile the tramp rested and looked over to me
and quivered:

"You ain't one of the crowd?"

"No."

"And don't want me to disperse?"

"Not particularly."

"All right. I don't think the United States and his gang want anything more of me just now, and as I have an engagement down the road, I'll move on. When they get washed up and the landings on,
tell 'em I used to scrap with the boys in Chicago in days gone by, and that I held myself in and let 'em off very mild.

Good-by, stranger. Ta, ta, old feller!"

And he had been gone ten minutes before the postmaster came over to me and whispered:

"Did you ever?"—New York Sun.

Editor's Wise Advice.

Mrs. X. is one of those by no means rare mortals whose discipline is much dependent upon her mood, while her mood in turn is much influenced by her bodily comfort. It follows that the small daughter Katie is treated with more or less sternness, according to circumstances, a fact which she is quite shrewd enough to appreciate. One day recently Mrs. X. was reproving Katie in rather fretful tones, when the child looked up from her seat on the floor to observe with the preternatural gravity of 3 years:

"Oh, take a more comfortable chair,
mamma."—Boston Courier.

Could Take His Choice.

Long Haired Individual—Sir, I am a poet.

Editor—Yes, that's all right. Which would you prefer—to be climbed to death
by the devil, or thrown down the elevator?—The Epoch.

A Matter of Uncertainty.

"How does your husband like your new hat?"

"I don't know; he hasn't seen the bill
yet."—Troy Press.

Two Different Ideals.

Visitor—Why are you crying, Tommy?

Tommy—Because mamma won't let me
wear my hair long.

Visitor—Oh, you want to look like little Lord Fauntleroy, don't you, dear?

Tommy—Now; I want to look like Buffalo Bill.—Chicago Journal.

CRISP CONDENSATIONS.

Hainestown, D. T., reports a shower of frogs.

Oxmoor, Ala., has a curiosity in the shape of a petrified pine stump weighing about 300 pounds.

In a recent wind which swept San Francisco bay many vessels dragged their anchors and were driven against each other.

Amelia Battle, a negro auntie of La Grange, Ga., claims that she had several children running around when the war of 1812 broke out.

The six Chinese companies of San Francisco have bought mining territory covering 200 square miles in Real del Castillo, Lower California. Price, $500,000.

A Virginia woman who keeps a toll gate on the Berryville highway has had to shoot three tramps thus far this spring,
and she looks forward to an unusually brisk season in that line.

has the diploma given to her great-grandfather at Princeton college and

It is alleged that the United States
buys all the cheap teas grown in China, while the best grades go to England and France. In return, however, we send to China all the poorest and cheapest canned goods.

The newest feature of personal adornment is made up of hairs from the tail of the African elephant made into watch guards and bracelets. The elephant is now becoming so scarce that his relics are said to be very fashionable.

A Pike county, Ga., man stabbed at two fighting water snakes with a long pole, and missed them. When he pulled the pole out of the mud he found that he had thrust through a seventy-four pound fish. This is a combined fish and snake story.

A curious result of the crowds in New York during the celebration was the difficulty experienced by residents in burying their dead. All available horses and carriages were pressed into the service of the sightseers, so that it was difficult to get any for funerals.

J. F. Oberly, of Kissimmee, Fla., heard a rumper in his hog pen and went out to investigate. He found a 600 pound bear devouring a pig, and, having no valid objections, went back to bed. He knew the bear weighed 600 pounds, as it was killed a day or two after.

News has been received in Mexico of the discovery in the state of Chiapas, near the ruins of Palenque, of a large
city hidden in the depths of the forests.
Some buildings are five stories high and in a good state of preservation. There is a well paved road several miles in length still perceptible in the midst of a tropical forest.

In a Tarrytown sanitarium is a petrified prehistoric lizard, 11 feet and 1 inch long, 18 inches broad at the shoulders and 9 inches at the head and weighing 300 pounds. Its color is gray and its substance sandstone. The specimen, which is almost perfect, was exhumed
on the shore of Charlestown lake, five miles from Farmerville, Province of Ontario, in July last.

The official figures of the United States census in 1790 were 3,929,339, of which number 695,655 were slaves. A short time after these figures appeared Capt.
G. Inlay, a Virginian, published an article in which he placed the population of this country in 1890 at 64,646,000, and was therefore supposed by his friends to be a visionary. His prediction was surprisingly accurate.

IDEAS FOR DRESS.

Feathers have been discarded for the summer.

The treppe capote is a bonnet of youthful shape.

Bengaline dresses are in favor for afternoon receptions.

This season's fashions are ornamented
with forty-two stars.

Maid of honor at weddings carry baskets of lilies of the valley.

Black and colored tulle bonnets are made for midsummer wear.

Silver lorgnettes are a shade more elangant than those of tortoise shell.

Bonnets for youthful matrons have strings that come from the back.

Very large ladies should wear plain fabrics without figures or stripes.

A wedding trousseau for a bride in England consists of eighty garments.

Straw bonnets for summer are almost as soft as lace and are held in shape by line wire.

A shade of pink, which is not expressed by "salmon" or "old rose," is called veal color.

A lovely evening dress is made of a soft silk in a shade of yellow like the laburnum blossoms.

Young ladies graduates wear low necked gowns when the commencement takes place in the evening.

A boot with a triplicate sole is an invention of latest date. Said boot, it is estimated, will last a lifetime.

There has been a report—not properly confirmed, however—that dress coats are to be lined with colored satin next season.

Bonnet strings are tiny pipings like milliner's folds, which pass under the chin and end in a rosette just below the left ear.

Ladies of wealth and fashion have contracts with florists for keeping their drawing rooms supplied with their favorite exotics.

The Ladies' Dress association in London, which does its best to extend the use of garments conducive to health and comfort, employs a milliner who has invented a cork hat for ladies.

"A steel which is twelve inches long and placed in the back of the dress twelve inches below the waist line," the latest definition of a bustle, shows that the article is fast fading from existence.—New
